A person should speak really well to identify as good communicator. Infact communication skills and personality development are like two sides of the same coin. The personality development depends up on the mix of good and bad behaviour in different situations. If anyone wants to change by changing their traits,they can improve their personality.

To make all the faculty familiar with the tips for developing personalites the IQAC of the college has taken an initiative to invite Prof.Prem chand, Dept of Commerce & Management Studies, SK University, Ananthapur as a Resource Person.

Prof. Premchand in his lecture said that everyone should be kind to others. There should be self-Analysis which brings optimism, wisdom, happiness and positive thinking.

He said that people and situations will be always changing and they will not fit in a particular frame of perfection. He advised them to be positive and not to overthink or overanalyse. He asked them to eradicate negative qualities such as anger, jealousy and greed.
