

WORLD CONSUMER RIGHTS DAY CELEBRATIONS

Date: 15-03-2022

Department of Commerce organised World Consumer Rights Day and also conducted competitions on Cartoon Design, Elocution and Essay writing on the occasion of World Consumer Rights Day.

Brief report of the program:

Department of Commerce invited Smt.Lanka. Padmaja, a senior Advocate in Andhra Pradesh High Court as a guest speaker for this programme. Smt.Lanka. Padmaja shared valuable inputs pertaining to World consumer rights day with our B. Com students. She explained Consumer Protection Act, Section 2(D) that defines the title 'consumer' clearly. There are warranties and guarantees given by the marketers and sellers but it is consumer's responsibility to understand them completely. Consumer is the first God to seller. Eventually how goods marketed by seller is the important aspect to know by the consumer. Smt.Lanka. Padmaja advised students to avoid foods that add chemicals in it and choose organic foods for better health and wellbeing. It is better to opt for certified and authorised products and services rather getting into troubles. She advised our students for easy methods of cultivation of vegetables and others so as to fulfil our daily food needs. She also explained that there is consumer advocacy groups' state wise to have proper justice if there is any problem faced by consumer.

This programme was successfully completed by distribution of prizes to winners in various competitions those were held by the department of commerce.
