

Department of Biochemistry

Name of Program : National Seminar on Significance of Fermentation in Industry and Health Care

Resource Persons : 1. Dr.P.Kiranmayi

Associate Professor, Department Of Biochemistry

Acharya Nagarjuna University, Guntur.

2. Prof. Majeti Narasimha Vara Prasad

Retired Professor, Dept. of Plant Sciences,

School of Life Sciences, University of Hyderabad,
Hyderabad.

Number of Participants : 200 students from various colleges

Date : 18/09/2024

Brief Report : The Departments of Biochemistry, Food science & Technology and Microbiology organised a National Seminar on “Significance of Fermentation in Industry and Health Care” The Resource person, Dr.P.Kiranmayi has explained that Fermentation promotes the growth of beneficial bacteria, known as probiotics. Which improve immune function as well as digestive and heart health. And another Resource person, Prof. Majeti Narasimha Vara Prasad focused on the Agri-Food Waste Valorization for value additions in Food science.

Lighting of Lamp by Resource Person

Release of Monograph on Fermented Foods

Resource Persons Addressing the gathering

Exhibits of various Fermented foods by the participants