Description of the Programme:

On the occasion of Hiroshima and Nagasaki Day, the Department of Chemistry organized an awareness programme aimed at promoting peace and educating students about the devastating impacts of nuclear warfare. The programme began with the screening of informative and thought-provoking videos that highlighted the historical events of August 6 and 9, 1945, and their lasting consequences on humanity and the environment.

Following the video presentations, an interactive quiz session was conducted to assess and enhance participants' understanding of the topic. The questions encouraged critical thinking and active participation, creating a lively and engaging learning environment. The event served not only as a reminder of the tragic past but also as an appeal to work towards a peaceful and war-free future.
